I'm beginning to understand why my mother talks about you all the time! You wouldn't believe what she said and did! You know that picture of us in the library with Mrs. Merricks (Brings back memories) (The grand old occult!) Well, my mama was looking through the annual and said "why theres this!" I said doesn't anybody sitting around him look familiar? She said "no"! So, of course I pointed me out! She was shocked to death to see that any photographer would even want to take a picture of the back of me, let alone the front! She just always has liked you a lot! I think that job on the windows did the trick! That's all she could talk about for at least a week! She keeps telling me things like that so I will like you alot. I told her that she didn't have to worry. Sometimes our family gets along though, believe it or not! It's usually around Christmas or somebody's birthday! Well, I'm really sorry that you have had to have talked to Flo, maybe you won't ever have to again! I hope not! It kind of gets me when she knows more about the situation (whatever it may be) than I do! Well, the time has come, and I've got to get in bed, it's late! I'm sure you will be in some of my classes next year! You'll just have to! O.K. See you around!

Love always,
Karen

P.S. I'm going to miss you when you and Mark are going to Alaska!

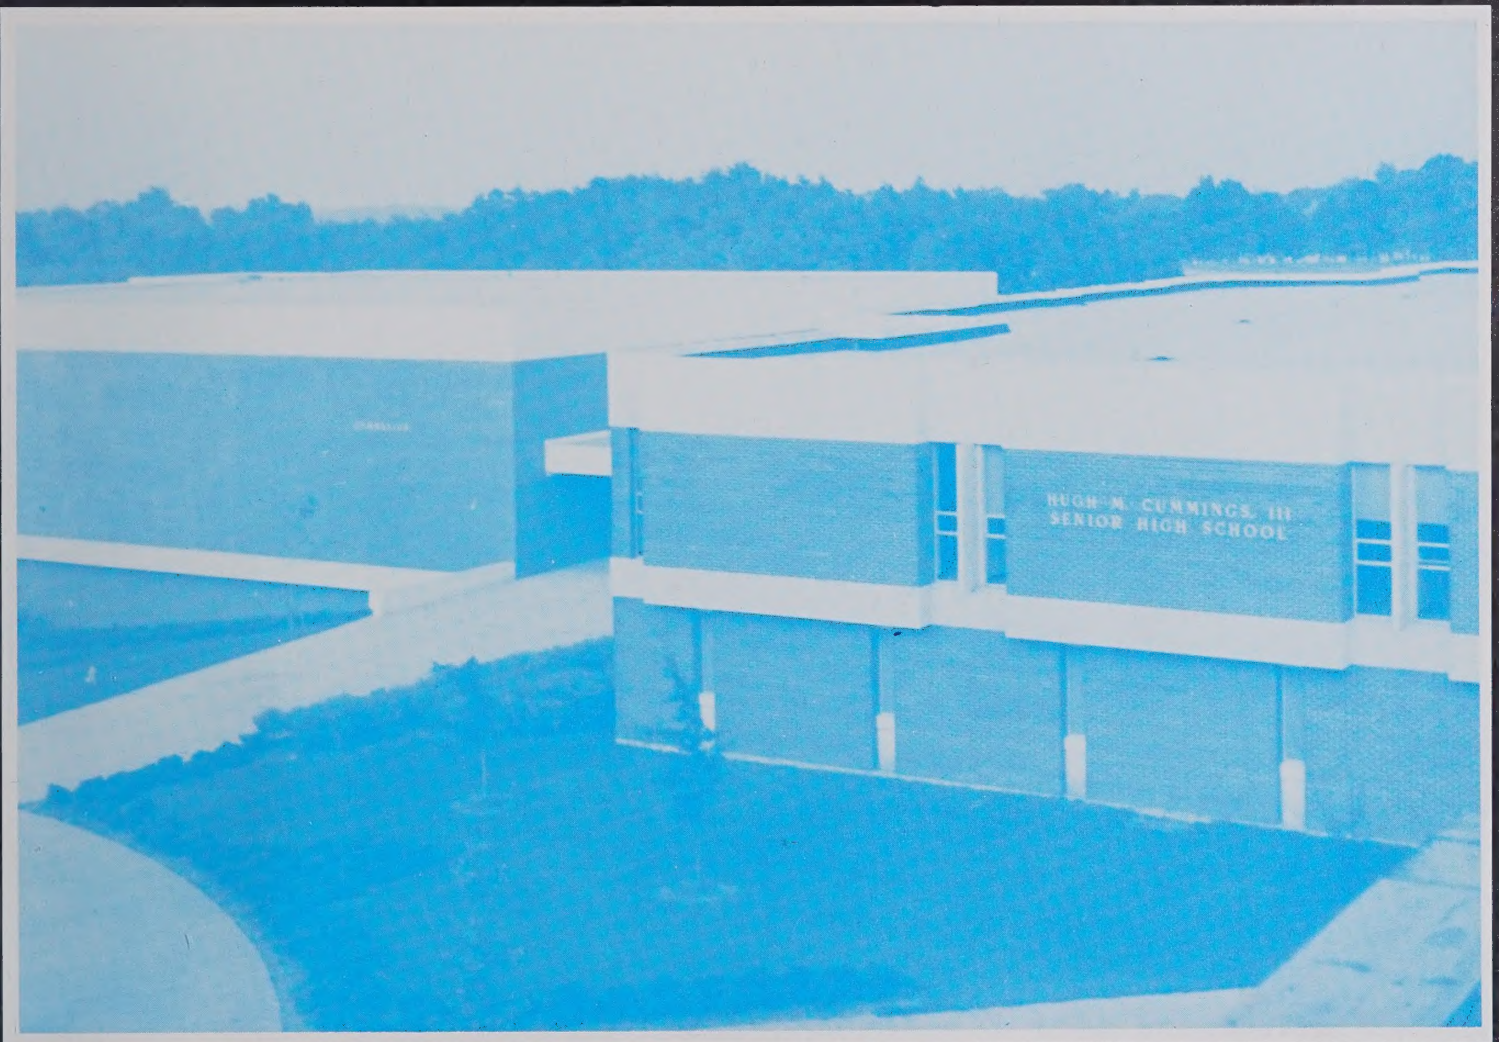

→ that's just to take up room, so this whole page can be mine!

Otis,

Well here I go, I guess I have to write a page since I wrote Linda one! After I get going I probably won't even have enough room. I just can't put down any old thing, like I might put on someone else's! I just couldn't bring myself to do such a thing! You have really meant a lot to me not only during the school, but otherwise too! I'm very appreciative of all the things that you have done for me! I couldn't write down all the "little things" that to me have meant so much, you've really been a blessing to me, you know the old song "Count your many blessings" well, I guess you are one! Ha ha. Sometimes I wonder what would have happened these past few months if you hadn't been around! You really know how to make somebody feel better when they don't feel so hot! I guess you are just born nice! You just know how to do such things! I hope you always stay the same way, don't ever change, I wouldn't change you if I were paid to! I really do think a lot of you. So of course I wouldn't want you to be anything different! Of course, everyone changes a little now and then, but still, you know what I mean, I hope! I also hope you keep up you're running, so one day you can look back on all that work and say it was worth while! Don't ever give up hope on those trophies, the rate you are going now, you aren't going to have any competition come trophy time again! Maybe they were just prejudice against Sophomores or something this year! Next year, you will just have to start you a trophy case, you just wait and see! I'll be yelling and cheering you on the whole way, and you've got other friends that would be tickled to death to see you get a trophy! Like my mother for one. She's you're favorite fan I believe, oh, besides Christy! You wouldn't believe those notes she gave me tonight before church! One of these days maybe I'll tell you what they said! Just maybe! She talks about you day and night, constantly, without stopping! You are just so persuasive I guess, I don't know though. She seems to like this boy in her class at school! You better watch out - here comes competition (Ha ha) Well, I was right, it is going to take more than one page! Over D

The long summer days were being swept away by the cool autumn wind that moved in the night whispering quietly to me, "The easy time is gone and September is here." And the green turned gold and red and brown, and I, too, changed as the coolness turned cold.

Winter caught me unaware and taught me to search for more than warmth or an end to hunger, and I remembered summer days like a faded photograph in a dusty album.

The long winter nights crept sluggishly toward spring, and spring was hope, a spot of green in a field of brown, a touch of a smile in this place of tears.

Spring warmed the blood of even the rocks, and the days were stretched and warmed like skin in the sun: Heat, wind, snowflake, night and the cycle was complete; the merry-go-round of season whined like words from a poet long dead and now revived, stopping briefly to be heard and then moving into the night on a soft summer breeze when I am alive and searching:

We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time.

along with the crowd.

not knowing where we were going.

With new eyes we saw we were being led into the future.

Suddenly we felt the waves of change.

We turned around . . .

and found ourselves together.

We were born into predestination.
The stage was set and the people were cast.
We finally realized that we should be thankful for a chance.
Be not sorrowful that the end is near, but be thankful that there was a beginning.

... We remember the beginning,
The Spring.

It starts early with—months of planning
Fund raising—Themes—Decorations—Food—
And then the reality hits you,
It's tonight!
The Junior-Senior Prom.
Your nerves go on edge and Your stomach gets heavy.
You arrive—An what was is no more.

The Embers

The halls of learning are transformed.
It's like a dream world—and the Everyday people aren't everyday,
Not tonight!
Then it is over
And somehow you know that all the Work was worth it.
And you had the "Embers"
And a beautiful night to savor.

MY FAIR LADY

On April 11, 12, and 13 the concert choir presented the hit Broadway Musical, "My Fair Lady", at the Park Theater. The many hours of hard work, from January until April, proved to be worthwhile on opening night. Everyone reviewed the musical as being of superior quality and supported their feelings by filling the theater every night.

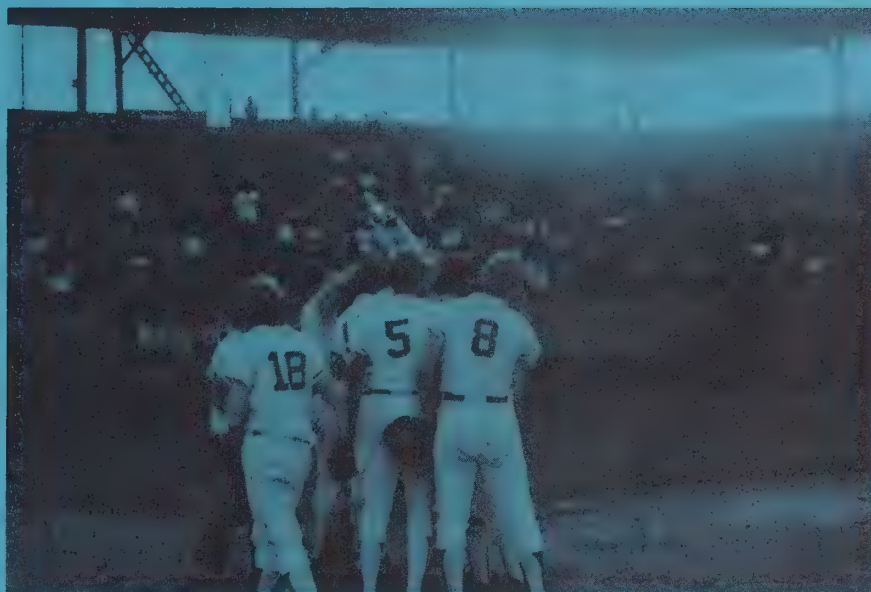

Most of the credit for the success of "My Fair Lady" goes to the director, Mr. Tom Jenrette, who worked as hard, if not harder, than any of the cast.

BASEBALL 1972—THIS WAS OUR YEAR—CITY—COUNTY CHAMPIONS.

Graduation—1972

Somewhere in the building there are ghosts. They laugh, shake hands, clutch diplomas, and here and there they cry. Joy or sadness? Probably both. And if one listens close enough, he can still hear them shuffling out the gym door for the last time, as students: laughing, clutching, crying.

Where are those moments I threw away; moments growing to years and where am I? Music calls me back again and I am here seeking, listening, looking.

And like a wave that returns persistently on, those new ghosts return for one more year, life defying death, energy moving apathy. An old teacher stands in his door shaking his head and mumbling to no one in particular, "It's just not fair, is it? I keep getting older and they stay the same."

Try to stop a wave.

Try to stop a wave.

Try to stop a wave.

It will return, return.

Accept it or drown:

Ghosts come in waves.

To Complete the Beginning of the Year—Our First Football Game— Cummings vs Graham

Monday was the start of a week's excitement,
Nothing but fun on schedule.
A never ending display of childhood antics,
A sucker to lick on and a hat to wear.
The excitement showed in students' faces
As they witnessed a bonfire on a chilly Thursday night.
Blue and Gold—our colors, our school, and our week.

HOMECOMING

Although the night was cold, a homecoming spirit warmed the air.
The stadium was filled with the sounds of happiness,
Honoring our first homecoming complete with alumni.
The excitement held out through the halftime activities centering around the crowning of the Queen.
And the night was completed with the satisfaction of success.

1973 HOMECOMING QUEEN

Miss Cindy Thompson

Senior attendant, Cindy Thompson; escort, Jimmy Scott

Cindy Thompson was crowned Homecoming Queen during half-time activities by her escort, Jimmy Scott.

A win over Eastern set the pace for a homecoming dance following the game. Music by "Five Miles Out" provided the entertainment for which the Cavaliers celebrated their victory. A fitting end to a fulfilling day.

Team's Getting Ready, The Spirit is Rising,

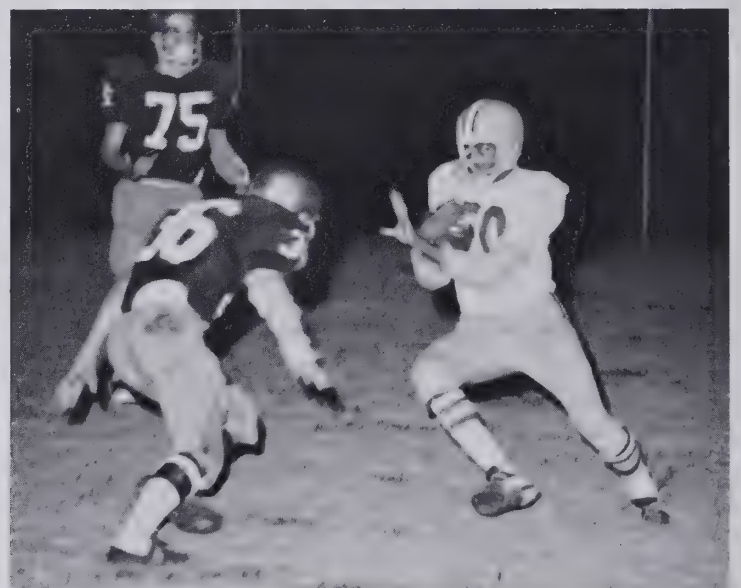

Sports are an important part of any high school's activities. But before you can field teams, you must have student participation and hard work. Sports foster a better relationship between people, and sports activities teach self-respect and discipline.

A Break from Class . . . Entertainment Provided by The Chamber Singers

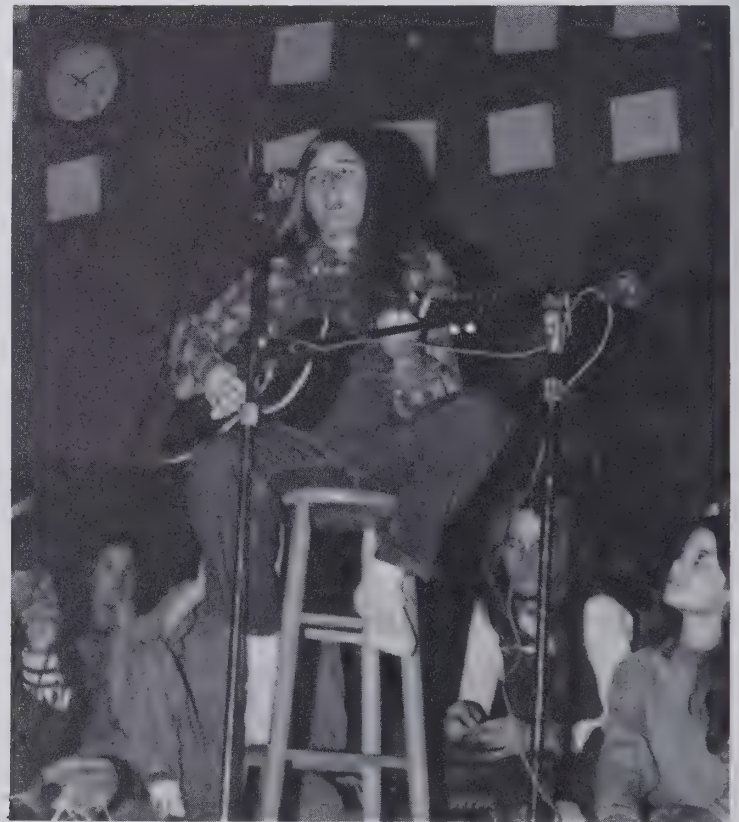

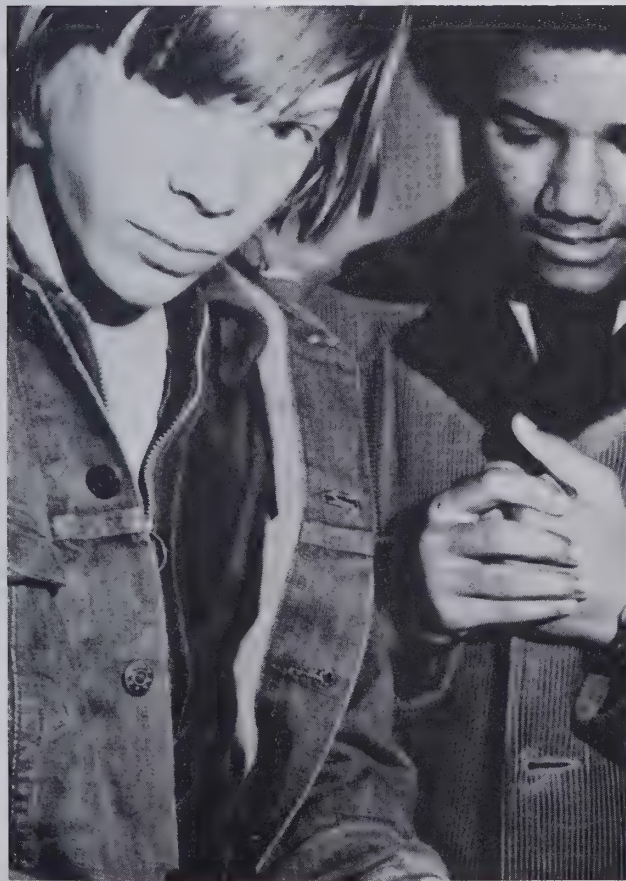

On December 15 and 16, the Junior Class sponsored a talent show to help raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme of the show was, "Hee Haw." The performances were a great tribute to Mr. Bell, who was the adviser.

Senior High, a new challenge, A challenge to prove ourselves as young adults.
 We came with open minds eager to experience new adventures.
 We end this year with the knowledge of having been a part of the great C.H.S.

SENIORS

Now it is our beginning,
We are the top.
Finally, we lead, we decide.
We make the school what we want,
And we want a lot!
We give it our all—not for glory
But for satisfaction.
We make this year not only the last,
But the best!
Who can forget?
This is our senior year!

As spokesman for the entire Annual Staff, I would like to take this opportunity to express a warm thank you to the people who have given their time to the '73 edition of Nulli Secundus. We extend our gratitude to Mrs. Stout on the business staff and Mrs. Evans on the layout staff. We would also like to thank Mr. Richard Smith and Lynn Chaney for the copy they contributed.

To produce this annual took an immense amount of effort provided by the members of the staff. The work was made easier by the help of our yearbook representative, Mr. Dave Marshburn. Any annual's worth is proved by the degree to which those who are included use it in future years to compare what they are with what they were. As the title to our annual suggests, we hope every member of Cummings can say that his achievements here were "second to none."

Let me close my ears
And shut my eyes to blindness; let smells vanish into a vacuum
And touch be numb
And taste neither bitter or sweet: give me time to think, remember what has been, leading unceasingly until now:
What I have heard were people talking, laughing, and sometimes crying: all these were necessary.
What I saw was a world which had to include me and all that I am.
What I smelled were odors of life, only life, death will have to wait:
all these were necessary.
What I touched sometimes cut,
Sometimes soothed, both hard and soft,
both were there, both were necessary.
What I tasted I shall taste.
again, both the sour and the delicious:
all of these have gone before me in my day, with me, for me, and I am not the person that I was or will be, for good or ill do not figure, do not matter to me now only knowing I am not the person that I was.
